Template

This framework will appear on all pages.

1

Top Nav Bar

- a link to the homepage [01]
- a search box
- search submit link
- link to advanced search [18]
- a link to help [20]
- a link to "How to Contribute" [11]
- a the discussion help page
- a tagline that is rotated randomly

2

Your Identity

This links to your Artist Profile screen [06]. If you haven't logged in yet, this area will have two links labelled "login" and "register" to the login screen [16]. The line "If this is not you click here" will logout the current user. The help link here will take you to "Why Register".

3

TV

This links to the schedule page, currently the Homepage [01].

4

Zone Themes

All zones are organized into one of these seven themes. Clicking on one of these themes will take the user to the Zone Browser [17]. The Zone Browser will only display zones of the selected theme.

5

People

This area indicates the number of people currently using the site. The people icon links to the People Browser [13] showing a list of the online users (the People Browser also allows).

7

Featured Content

This is an editorially-controlled content area. It will be used to direct user to special zones, content items and news items. Items in this area may be a square graphic, a graphic with text, or text only.

8

Footer

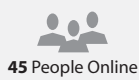

The footer contains:

- a link to a page with a view of all logged-in users.
- a link to a random content item.
- a link to legal documents.
- a link to contact information.

Icons

The following is a list of 19 icons that will need to be designed for the site (and page numbers where they will be used):

- Zone [10]
- Content Item [10]
- People [00]
- 10 User Icons [03]
- TV Schedule [00]
- Episode [10]
- Contextual Help (Question Mark)

1

User Ad Banner

Users may create banners advertising themselves that will be selected randomly.

2

Zones

Some space on the homepage should be devoted to displaying the newest and most popular Zones. These links should be Zone titles and should link to the Zone Macro View page [04]. Zone titles will be no longer than 40 characters.

3

Stars & Regulars

Once the Zed community becomes active, it will be important to highlight the best and more frequent contributors as a method for encouraging others to participate.

4

Submissions

These links of links highlight the best and newest user-contributed content.

5

Schedule Browser

Users can use this flash movie to navigate through the TV schedule. Clicking on a block in the browser will take the user to the Episode Macro View [10]. Each block contains a cropped version of an episode banner graphic. See diagram [15] for more information.

6

What is zed?

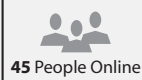

A brief definition of zed (1-2 sentences) will appear prominently on the homepage for the benefit of first-time visitors.

Photo

Attach a photo (or some kind of graphical representation of you). This will appear only in your Artist Profile page.

Title

Some people like conventional titles like "musician" or "filmmaker", others like titles like "mix monkey" or "micro serf". We don't care how you title yourself, just put it here.

Artist Bio

Your Artist Bio is your chance to describe yourself and what you do.

User Registration (Step 2)

User registration is a two-step process containing the fields described on this page and on page [02].

Zone Macro View

Zones are the social areas of the Zed site. Centering around a particular topic or theme, Zones allow groups of like-minded artists to meet, interact and share content. A Zone can relate specifically to the TV show (like "Logo Treatments" or "Bumpers"), or to more general topics which may or may not be used on TV (such as "Unknown Garage Bands" or "George Harrison Dies").

- 1 User Icons
Users can select a custom icon to represent themselves in the community (see screen #13). Administrative users will all be represented by the CBC logo to visually distinguish them from ordinary community members. Clicking on an icon will take you to that person's Profile screen [06]. Note that the zone creator icon should be visually distinct.
- 2 Content Item Micro View
See page [21] for a detailed spec of the content item micro views. Note that micro views at appear here do not include a link to their zone.
- 4 Edit Button
The Zone creator will see a button that takes them to an edit screen (see screen #5)
- 5 Social Indicators
The user interface should include elements like this to support the notion of zones as social spaces and to encourage participation.

- 6 Zone Creator
This icon represents the creator of the Zone. ("mmgreaves" is this person's username.) Clicking on this icon will take you to this person's Artist Profile (see screen #6).
- 7 Zone Description
This text helps guide submissions and discussions towards a particular topic or theme.
- 8 Join Zone
Users can subscribe to a zone by clicking this button. This zone will then appear in their "My Zones" tab in their Artist Profile [06]. This action will also cause their name to appear in the "Members" tab of this screen.
- 9 Zone Icon
Zone will be identifiable by a general zone icon (to distinguish Zones from Content Items and Episodes).
- 10 Custom Icon
Zones may have a custom icon provided by the zone owner to help brand the Zone.
- 11 Optional Zone Image
Zone creators may upload a larger banner image to further customize the site.

Your Profile (1)

Each user on the system has an Artist Profile page containing public information page as well as a list of their submissions. Users will be able to search each others' profiles and start collaborating with each other. Each user gets a fully qualified domain name beginning with their username.

- 1 Customization
Users may customize their Profiles with a photo and a bio.
- 2 Veterans
By displaying the "age" of each user on the system, we encourage long term use of the zed community site.
- 3 Public Information
Every user can control how much contact information they wish to release on their profile page.
- 4 Screen Name
All users have a short screen name that they use to identify themselves in the online community. For information on user icons, see Zone Macro View [04].
- 5 Tabs
Tab titles should include summary information (such as number of submissions and postings) so that users will know whether or not to click.
- 6 Themes
These are the themes that the user "belongs" to. They are selected at sign-up and can be changed in the edit interface.

4

Zone Mini View
Zones are the areas on the site where users can submit content for TV. Zed producers will add zones to the episode schedule to guide user submissions into particular areas.
Zone Mini Views will include:
- the zone title and a link to the Zone Macro View [10]
- optionally, a user-contributed zone graphic
- the zone description
- the number of submissions
- the popularity of the zone (number of discussion posts)

5

How to Contribute Content to Zed

Submit your work in three simple steps:

1. Choose a Zone. Start by using the menu above to get to the relevant area ("Music", "Moving Pictures", etcetera). If your work doesn't fit into any of the areas, choose the "Kitchen Sink". Within each of these areas, browse through the existing Zones to see where your work belongs, then click on the most appropriate one. If you don't see an appropriate Zone, click the "Create New Zone" button to create one.

2. Upload your file(s). Click on the button that says "Submit Content Now!" Then follow the prompts to upload your files.

3. Preview. After submitting your work, look at the page and test the download to make sure everything looks fine and works properly.

You can also call us at 1-800-ZED-LINE or email us at acquisitions@zed.cbc.ca.

We are always looking for submissions in the following Zones [\[LINK to each Zone\]](#):

- ZeD logo Photoshopping
- CBC logo Photoshopping
- Say What
- Location Shots
- Citizen ZeD
- Stick Man Film Noir
- Snapshots
- Mock Commercials

People Browser

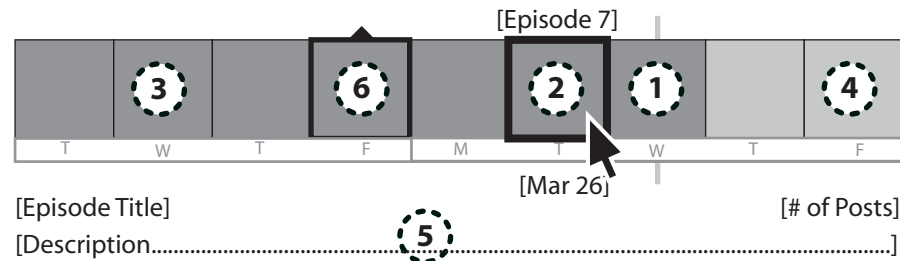

See page [24] for the People MiniView spec.

Schedule Browser

The Schedule Browser is a dynamic Flash-based navigation tool that responds to mouse gestures, allowing users to quickly and easily browse past and future TV schedules. The Schedule Browser will appear on the Homepage [01] and the Episode Macro View [10].

The browser described here is only an example, but the final browser should allow a similar kind of fast timeline navigation while communicating episode summary information.

Each block represents an episode.

Mouse-Over Details

A part of the schedule browser should expose additional information about items in an Episode, including:

- Episode Title
- Number of episode discussion posts
- Episode description (with embedded hyperlinks)

You Are Here

The Schedule Browser should show the currently selected episode. This is particularly important for the Episode Macro View [10]. The Schedule Browser on the homepage [01] this will always be set to today.

Today

Today's episode should be visually identifiable.

Selecting an Episode

Users may navigate the timeline by moving their mouse left or right, exposing episode information. Clicking on an Episode bar will take the user to the Episode detail page [10].

Past Shows

Past shows will be represented by a cropped version of their Episode Banner, providing a unique visual cue to user that will help them find what they are looking for.

Future Shows

Future episodes will not yet have an episode graphic and may not yet contain any scheduled content, but they may already be related to zones where users can submit content.

Sortable Fields

- Age
- Title
- Number of Members (default)
- Number of Posts
- Number of Contributions

2

Zone Mini Views

This is the summary view of zones. Each entry should contain:

- Zone + Theme logo
- Zone title
- Description
- Creation date
- Link to owner's profile
- "Contribute!" link
- Number of submissions
- Number of comments
- Number of members
- A custom icon (if it exists)

The Zone Mini View also appears in the Episode View [10] and Zone Browser [17].

3

Pager Bar

A data set pager bar should be designed, allowing the user quickly and easily move through large sets of zones. A more detailed description of the pager bar is available on [xx].
